Stricken Area Is Centered Near Granitsa

Athens, Greece (AP) — Greece's second major earthquake in less than a year brought shattering destruction and death in the central mountainous area yesterday. First official estimates said 150 people were killed or injured and more than 25,000 made homeless. Hundreds of homes were shaken down like flimsy stacks of cards.

The stricken area apparently centered near the village of Granitsa, 135 miles northwest of Athens near the Pindus Mountains. The town of Farsala, said to be the home of Achilles, hero of Homer's Iliad, was reported wiped out. The town is the site of the Battle of Pharsalus in 48 B.C., when Julius Caesar routed Pompey the Great.

The town of Sofades, also was reported completely destroyed. Three-quarters of Trikala, a city of 27,800, was reported leveled. Other towns hard hit were Karditsa, Lamia, and Volos.

Damage was widespread in rural areas, too, where hundreds of houses collapsed in a cloud of dust. Tremors of "catastrophic violence" continued to shake parts of Thessaly this afternoon. Disaster appeared to reach from the east coast inland to mountain country accessible only by donkey trail.

Communication and rescue work was made more difficult by the fact it was a religious holiday. All shops and public buildings were closed and no newspapers were publishing. Interior Minister Ioannis Nicolitis first disclosed the extent of the shock.

Gold Sentenced To 1-3 Years

Washington (AP)—Ben Gold, 55-year-old Russian-born union leader, was sentenced to from one to three years in prison yesterday for turning in a false non-Communist oath. Affidavits disclaiming any connection with the Communist party are required of union leaders under the Taft-Hartley law before their organizations can function under the National Labor Relations Board.

Gold, president of the Fur and Leather Workers Union, was convicted April 2 of making two false statements in his affidavit: (1) that he was not a member of the Communist party, and (2) that he did not support any organization that advocated overthrow of the U. S. government by force and violence. He was permitted, over government objections, to remain free in $10,000 bail pending appeal. U. S. District Judge Charles F. McLaughlin said he felt there was a "substantial question" of law involved that should be reviewed by higher courts.

Pope Reaffirms Church Doctrine

Vatican City (AP)—Pope Pius XII, in an encyclical to Roman Catholic bishops throughout the world, has reaffirmed the church's doctrine of superiority of the state of virginity and celibacy over that of marriage.

The Pope said the church's need for young people to dedicate themselves to the religious life is as great today as at any time in its history.

Entitled "Holy Virginity," the encyclical was dated March 25, feast day of the Annunciation to the Virgin Mary.

Churchill Warns:

Sending American Troops To Indochina A 'Mistake'

By Robert S. Allen

Washington — Prime Minister Churchill is flatly opposed to sending either American or British fighting forces to Indochina.

That's what he told Admiral Arthur Radford at their conference early this week.

The chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff that he report to President Eisenhower. He quoted Churchill as making the following emphatic pronouncement:

"Getting involved in the Indochina fighting would be one of the most tragic mistakes the U. S. ever made."

Churchill contended that "an honorable cease-fire" can be worked out between the French and Communists at Geneva if the U. S. "does not obstruct" such an agreement.

Churchill argued that American intervention in Indochina would drive Peiping to full-scale participation in that war. He asserted the principal reason Red China had not already done that was the failure of Russia to supply the necessary arms and munitions.

Churchill told Radford that U. S. policy should be aimed at driving a wedge between Moscow and Peiping.

He contended American policy is forcing the Reds closer together. Radford, in urging support of Secretary Dulles' proposal for a "united action" declaration against Chinese intervention in Indochina, stated Britain would not be asked for more troops than were sent to Korea. A so-called Commonwealth Division fought there, made up of British, Canadian, Australian and other units.

Churchill made four points in rejecting Radford's plea: British military commitments already are so great as to preclude sending any troops to Indochina. Military intervention would greatly increase the likelihood of world war III.

His government might be toppled, and the whole British Commonwealth might be split wide open. He believes Russia would like to end the fighting in Indochina, and if given the chance will help bring that about.

Dulles' Return To Capital May Bring To Head Dispute Over U.S. Policy In Asia

By John M. Hightower

Washington (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles' imminent return from the Geneva Conference probably will bring to a head a crisis inside the government over how strong a policy the United States should have toward Indochina.

Dulles has been at the Geneva Conference, where Indochina peace negotiations are the critical issue, only a week.

Before returning to Washington, he will fly to Milan Monday for a brief meeting with Italian Premier Mario Scelba. The Italians suggested the conference to discuss "international questions and matters of interest" to both Dulles and Scelba.

When the secretary comes back to Washington his chair at Geneva will be taken over by Under Secretary of State Walter Bedell Smith.

Smith left the capital in a special Air Force plane yesterday morning, emphasizing to reporters that Dulles would continue to direct the Geneva negotiations from here and would cross the Atlantic again on short notice if necessary.

Diplomatic informants concede that Dulles is coming home to a government divided in its councils and frustrated, for the moment at least, in some of its major purposes regarding the conflict with Communism in Southeast Asia.

American leadership on the issue is regarded as much less decisive than when Dulles went to Geneva. There are behind scenes fears here that the Russians may score successes in their drive to weaken the Western alliance, with resulting setbacks not only in the protection of Southeast Asia against Communism but also in the organization of Western Europe for its own security.

A major aim of Soviet policy is the defeat of the European Defense Community. In the struggle over EDC, France, with all its vulnerability on the Indochina issue, is a key nation.

When Dulles left Washington for Geneva 10 days ago the United States was speaking with a strong and even threatening voice on Indochina. Dulles was still actively promoting a united front policy for the security of Southeast Asia. There was considerable talk of possible U. S. intervention.

Violent Winds Strike Portions Of Five States

Little Rock, Ark. (AP)—Violent winds raked five southwestern states yesterday, leaving one dead, at least 26 injured and widespread property damage.

Western portions of Kentucky and Tennessee were alerted for "locally severe thunderstorms during the night" by the Little Rock Weather Bureau, which lifted tornado warnings for Western Mississippi and Tennessee at 9:30 p.m.

Destructive blows, some of them described as small tornadoes, lashed about 36 cities and communities early yesterday afternoon.

The only reported death from the widespread storms was that of a 70-year-old Negro woman at Many, La.

Stocks Rise, Drop

New York (AP)—The stock market launched a great buying spree yesterday with vigor, and then it stumbled over profit-taking and closed in a ragged manner.

The Weather

Mostly cloudy and warm with showers and scattered thunderstorms today, tonight and Sunday. High today 74-78.

Juliana Denies Intention To Trick Probers

Washington (AP)—A McCarthy subcommittee aide took full responsibility yesterday for a hotly controversial cut-down photograph in the McCarthy-Pentagon hearings.

Climaxing a week-long row, before television cameras, over the picture, Investigator James N. Juliana testified:

One—He supplied the inquiry with a Nov. 17, 1953, photograph of Secretary of the Army Stevens side by side with Pvt. G. David Schine—after ordering the deletion of an Air Force colonel who was in the picture as originally taken.

Two—He did so because he understood the man running the hearings, Special Counsel Ray H. Jenkins, and McCarthy aide Roy M. Cohn wanted a picture of Schine and Stevens only. Hotly, Juliana, a former FBI agent, denied any intention to "deceive" or "trick" the Senate investigators.

In the wake of this testimony about a photo which the Army side denounced as "doctored," Secretary Stevens returned to the witness stand for more cross-examination on one of the major points at issue: Did he try to squelch McCarthy's investigation of alleged subversives at Ft. Monmouth, N. J.?

Stevens acknowledged he once sounded out McCarthy on the possibility of removing Maj. Gen. Kirke Lawton as commander of Ft. Monmouth—specifically, that he asked Army Counsel John G. Adams to find out if the senator would make a "public issue" of Lawton's removal.

The Army secretary said the answer he got from Adams was that "Sen. McCarthy would not be pleased."

McCarthy contends Stevens "threatened reprisals" against Lawton because the general had cooperated with the McCarthy investigation and praised its work.

Stevens, on the witness stand for the seventh day, repeated a denial that he had any such motive.

He said he considered removing Lawton because the general had given a talk to staff officers suggesting a certain eight or 10 colleges and universities were turning out subversives, and Stevens said he felt such remarks were beyond the scope of a post commander.

Jenkins said the implication has been made that Stevens planned to fire Lawton for cooperating with McCarthy but was afraid to do so if McCarthy was going to make a public issue of it.

"I was not afraid," Stevens declared.

There were these other developments as the hearings recessed for the weekend:

One—Reports circulated that the White House was trying quietly to get the hearings ended quickly. Presidential Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said "there is nothing to it." Acting Chairman Mundt (R-SD) said he has had no suggestions "from any level" that the McCarthy-Pentagon dispute be "compromised." President Eisenhower expressed the hope yesterday the hearings could be wound up soon. Practically everybody playing a part in the inquiry has voiced the same hope.

Two—McCarthy sharply protested calling witnesses "out of order"—that is, quizzing his subcommittee staff members about the photo before cross-examination of Stevens was completed. He accused the Army side of "stalling," and declared he will "make every effort" to resume his place on the subcommittee if this sort of thing continues. McCarthy stepped off the group for purposes of the hearings. He told reporters later that, since Stevens returned for questioning, he won't press his demand to step back on.

Three—Some sort of conflict apparently developed between McCarthy and Sen. Dworshak (R-Idaho), who succeeded McCarthy on the subcommittee—for this inquiry only. McCarthy said he had intended to name Sen. John Marshall Butler (R-Md.) in his place but Butler was not feeling well that day. "I now wish he had been," McCarthy snapped. Dworshak has asked some questions which didn't seem favorable to the McCarthy cause, but so have other senators.

Elects President

Baltimore (AP)—Wilson H. Elkins, Texas Western College president, has been elected president of the University of Maryland. He succeeds H. C. Bird, who resigned to run for governor.

Two Housing Aides Ousted

Washington (AP)—Two officials of the Federal Housing Administration were suspended yesterday in a widening investigation of scandals in the government's housing program. They were alleged to have failed to answer questions about "acceptance of gratuities."

William F. McKenna, deputy administrator of the Housing and Home Finance Agency, announced that John P. McGrath, a chief appraiser for FHA, and Wilmer Russell, an inspector, have been removed of their duties in Philadelphia.

McKenna also disclosed that other investigations of "irregular practices" are under way in "major cities" of the country. He did not name the cities or say how many officials are involved.

Last week Albert M. Cole, chief of Housing and Home Finance, asked Congress for $250,000 to probe and clean up housing scandals. It is alleged that abuses occurred under the Truman administration and that some of them have continued under the Eisenhower administration.

Union Chiefs To Push For Jobless Aid

Washington (AP)—Heads of unions in the coal, steel and trucking industries yesterday formed a loose alliance to push for federal spending to combat unemployment. They also plan to act together in seeking other legislation they favor.

That was the announced result of a luncheon meeting between Presidents John L. Lewis of the United Mine Workers, Dave Beck of the AFL Teamsters and David J. McDonald of the CIO Steelworkers.

Lewis acting as spokesman at a news conference afterward, pointed out that the three unions have rich treasuries and a combined membership of about three million members.

The trio denied advance rumors that they planned to form a third labor federation to compete with the AFL and CIO, or that Beck had invited Lewis and McDonald into the AFL.

Instead, the three union bosses said they had mutual problems and intended to meet often in the future to try to tackle them.

Lewis was critical of government efforts and those by other labor unions to combat unemployment.

Soviets To Get British Rubber

London (AP)—Britain yesterday freed rubber for unlimited sales to the Soviet Union and its satellites in Europe.

The barrier against shipments to Red China and North Korea was kept intact. But there is nothing that can prevent the Soviet Union from selling rubber to the Chinese or North Korean Reds.

A Board of Trade spokesman said the step, effective Monday, was taken because Russia had purchased far less in 1953 than its "civilian needs" quota and was obtaining as much rubber as desired from "out of normal" channels.

MAJ. GEN. KIRKE B. LAWTON, commandant at Fort Monmouth, N. J., confers with Army counsel John Adams at a session of the Senate Investigations subcommittee in Washington. Gen. Lawton became a key figure in the McCarthy-Army hearings when a memo was introduced stating that Adams had asked a "halt" to certain phases of the probe of subversives at Fort Monmouth.

Adventists Mark Medical Mission Day

"Medical Missionary Day will be observed here today at the Stroudsburg Seventh Day Adventist Church, N. Second St., in Stroudsburg.

Practical Christianity is the only Christianity, members of the local church were told last week as the special day was announced by church officials.

"Christ, while on earth, emphasized the practical side of Christianity as He went about healing the sick," members were told.

"Church members should emulate the Master by standing ready to give care to sick neighbors and by being prepared to give instruction in helpful living."

National observance of the day will be highlighted by a special church program prepared in co-operation with national and state medical advisers and war service directors of the denomination. Civil defense training will be emphasized during the service. This includes Red Cross first aid training. The denomination has trained more than 20,000 people in standard and advanced first aid the past several years.

Special programs have been provided church leaders for Medical Day. Support will also be asked for the international medical program of the church which maintains more than 170 medical institutions utilizing the services of more than 2,500 full-time doctors and nurses.

Sabbath school will convene at 9:30 a.m. today with the worship service scheduled for 11.

Sunday School Lesson

By Newman Campbell
Scripture — I Kings 12:25-33; 14:1-20.

Jeroboam, the "mighty man of valor," to whom Solomon had given a post of honor, and later drove into exile, is now king of Israel, ruler over the 10 tribes, as the prophet Ahijah foretold. Our lesson today is the story of his life as the first king of the 10 tribes of the divided kingdom.

Since the breaking out of World War I in 1914, we have seen many republics rise and kingdoms fall. Kings and dictators have resigned, abdicated, gone into exile and some have died far from home; others were executed. There have been so many changes in these last 40 years that we sometimes are puzzled to remember what nations are free and which are under the domination of stronger governments.

Jeroboam had been blessed by Jehovah. He had been made a ruler, accepted by his people, and might have made his kingdom a happy, God-fearing nation. Did he? We shall learn how he sinned and displeased God by his evil doing.

He first built two new places of worship, one, Shechem on Mount Ephraim, and then Penuel. Then Jeroboam thought to himself, "If this people go up to do sacrifice in the house of the Lord at Jerusalem, then shall the heart of this people turn again unto their Lord, even Rehoboam, king of Judah, and they shall kill me."

Jeroboam was a selfish man, you see, concerned only with his own security, or what he thought was that. He had seen what happened to Solomon when he foresook the Lord and worshipped idols. He could have established these places for the worship of the Lord, but he had not learned his lesson. Jeroboam made two calves of gold, putting one in Bethel and the other in Dan; he made priests of the lowest of the people, and he ordained a feast in the eighth month and offered sacrifices to the golden calves he had made.

Then his young son, Abijah, fell sick. Jeroboam told his wife to disguise herself so that no one would recognize her, and to go to the home of Ahijah, the prophet who had prophesied the division of the kingdom, and to take the child to him to find out what was to become of him.

However, the Lord, acquainted Ahijah that Jeroboam's wife was on her way to him, in disguise, so that when she entered Ahijah's house he said to her: "Come in to you wife of Jeroboam; why feignest thou thyself to be another? For I am sent to thee with heavy tidings.

"Go tell Jeroboam, Thus saith the Lord God of Israel, forasmuch as I exalted thee from

How the selfishness and egotism which would impede man's spiritual progress can be overcome through obedience to God, divine Love, will be brought out at Christian Science services Sunday, when the subject of the lesson-sermon is "Everlasting Punishment."

Included are the following verses from the King James Version of the Bible (Rev. 3:19,20): "As many as I love, I rebuke and chasten: be zealous therefore, and repent. Behold, I stand at the door, and knock: if any man hear my voice, and open the door, I will come in to him, and he will sup with him, and he with me."

From "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, the following passage will also be read: "In patient obedience to a patient God, let us labor to dissolve with the universal solvent of Love the adamant of error — self-will, self-justification, and self-love — which wars against spirituality and is the law of sin and death." (242:15)

The Golden Text is from Job: "Surely it is meet to be said unto God, I have borne chastisement, I will not offend any more." (34:31).

They're always talking about me! They say all sorts of things I can't understand: Isn't she cute? Just a year old. Looks like her mother, doesn't she?

I wish I knew what it all means. But they always smile when they talk about me—so it must be complimentary.

Frankly, I haven't a worry in the world. My Mamma and my Daddy always seem to know what's best for me. I'm sure they want to do everything possible to make mine a wonderful life.

I just hope they realize how important it will be for me to go to Church School. But, of course, being the wonderful parents they are, they'll realize that little souls must grow up just like little bodies. And they'll not only provide for my religious training—they'll set the Christian example that a little "princess" like me simply has to have.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL...
ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

What About It?

It wasn't very long ago that everyone was shocked by the revelations of what the newest H-bomb could wreak in death and destruction. It stirred the briefest of conversation among us on: What would happen to us? What can we do to defend ourselves?

Have you given it even a passing thought these past few days?

It was announced a few days ago that Pennsylvania's Civil Defense will take part in an elaborate C. D. test on June 14 and 15.

You shoulder many responsibilities with your American citizenship. One of them is Civil Defense.

What have you done about it?

Our Fighting Men

The men who spent 429 days facing death or terrible injury while the hot war raged in Korea, and hated every minute of it, have not forgotten that wrecked and unhappy land.

Relief that it is all over and they are home? "I never want to see the place again!" Yes, there is that.

But there is something else, too, a display of mercy and charity that surpasses even the exemplary courage these men showed in combat.

Enlisted men and officers alike in the 45th Division all chipped in, and their joint effort made up a whopping check for $11,000. It was earmarked for a trust fund to keep up an orphanage in Korea that is now the home of 700 children. The new giving hiked to over $300,000 the donations of the men to organized charities for Korea. And this doesn't take into account the help given because of a kind heart by individual after individual. That is a "tally sheet" no one can ever draw up.

The American soldier is far more than a pillar of strength for the Free World.

He is the best ambassador of goodwill our country will ever know.

Sophia O'Hara

Death has taken one of the veteran women Republican leaders of Pennsylvania, a pioneer in office holding by the distaff side, in the person of Miss Sophia M. R. O'Hara who has held such cabinet positions in the Commonwealth as Secretary of the Commonwealth and Secretary of Welfare.

A list of the posts held by Miss O'Hara would be lengthy, for during most of her adult life she engaged in the state service in various positions of authority, including among other achievements practice as an attorney before the State Supreme and Superior courts.

In fact, she was for many years a deputy state attorney general, one of the first women to be so recognized.

Not the least of her activities in a busy life was her staunch support of the State Council of Republican Women, with which she associated herself from the earliest days of its organization and to which she brought her legal training to aid the young association during the period of its "growing pains."

Miss O'Hara's advice and counsel will be sorely missed by so many who came to regard her as an oracle wherever legal matters were concerned and who turned to her when the path of progress in their organizations became difficult to follow.

Her memory will be honored wherever Republican women gather but more than that, it will be honored wherever women of whatever political affiliation gather to discuss the progress of their sex in affairs of state.

The Once Over

—by H. I. Phillips

QUERY BY A TV ADDICT
This is a question I like to address.

Whatever happened to Dr. Peress? This I ask as the fly so fast: Why was the dentist dropped out of the cast?

Generals, Senators, probers galore

Fill up my screen as I tally the score;

This is the query I make in the brawl: Where is the dentist who started it all?

It strikes us that the big video show, "All's TV on the Potomac," while pretty absorbing needed music to grip the TV fans... We would have liked some theme songs as each personality took the stage... For example:

Joe McCarthy: I Don't Want No Ricochet Love.

Secretary Stevens: I Hear You Calling Me, My Shadow, All Alone.

Counsel Jenkins: I'm Walking Behind You.

Roy Cohn: Ain't Misbehavin', Pic David Schine: Don't Fence Me In, You're In The Army Now.

Sen. Mundt: This Is My Busy Day.

Sen. Dirksen: It Isn't Raining Raindrops, It's Raining Violets.

Mr. Carr: Because Of You.

Sen. McClellan: Stormy Weather.

Mr. Hensel: Down Memory Lane.

Sen. Symington: Missouri Waltz.

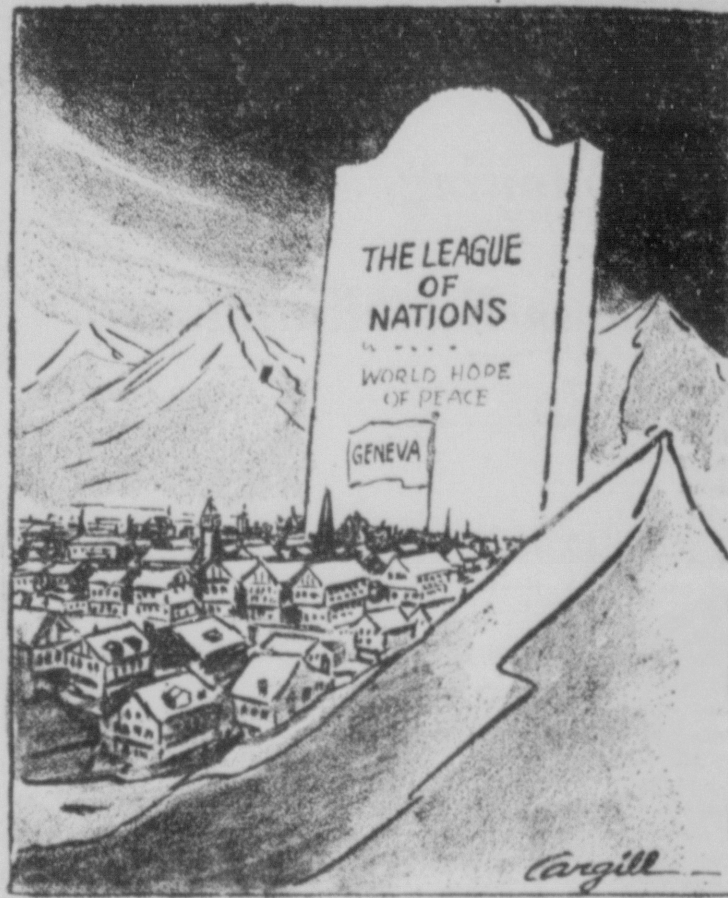

Impressions of the Washington TV quiz: Ray Jenkins makes Estes Kefauver seem mouselike, by any comparison, as a cross-examiner on TV... The quiz is pretty exciting, but needs a Tobey and a Virginia Hill... Secretary Stevens registers as a high-class agent who means well but lacks political sense... Any public official who had the slightest conception of political consequences would have been too smart to attend a dinner in the Waldorf Towers with the parents of a draftee who was a central figure in the big issue... Or attended a second dinner in a private dining room, let the draftee motor him to the station and then posed with him for photographs... The secretary seems on TV like an amateur who is up against old pros... Chairman Mundt and other Senators smoke pipes... Can this be why one big TV chain having many cigarette and cigar sponsors blacked out the sessions?

To video audience following hearings closely it was flabbergasted to note how some newspapers and commentators slanted their coverage, ignoring completely the most damaging testimony to Mr. Stevens, but emphasizing everything damaging to McCarthy, Cohn or Schine... Too much quibbling, hair-splitting and legal gum-chewing drove off the TV audience much of the time, with long stretches during which it appeared that everybody was trying to get into the (video) act... Senator Mundt is a chairman who gets meetings started on time, which alone entitled him to a decoration... The hostility between Senator McClellan and Joe McCarthy would seem to constitute a fire hazard... Why do so many photographers have to have so many pictures of so many people so many times?

Announcement that Guy Lombardo in his summer Jones Beach show will feature a disappearing underwater ballet, brings memories of the old Hippodrome and from Franklin's song about it which ran something like, "We enter the water with bare fronts and back, and disappear quickly to come up at Jack's"... John S. Burke, for years head of B. Altman's big Gotham department store, must be about the happiest dad in the big city... Saw his boy, John S. Burke, Jr., chosen president the other day... Believe it or not, TV has weather forecast programs which give credit to a DIRECTOR... ASPCA has stopped sale of earrings with midjet bows in which live guppies swim... But gals are buying the jewelry and having the fish put in at pet shops... Strikes us as the screwiest fad of 1954... A second reading

Robert S. Allen Reports

Kremlin Spent $50 Million For Germ War Propaganda

Washington — The Kremlin spent $50,000,000 in its world-wide propaganda campaign to stigmatize the U. S. as using germ warfare in Korea.

This startling disclosure of the cost of the infamous and was made by C. D. Jackson, magazine publisher and former special assistant to President Eisenhower, in a private talk with a group of senators.

Jackson told them the Communists embarked on this smear drive as a deliberate attack on the U. S. "It was a carefully planned and conducted strategy," he said. "The fact that the charge was completely false and utterly without foundation was part of the scheme."

"How did you find out what they spent?" asked Senator Allen Ellender (D., Ia.). "Our calculations are based on a number of things," explained Jackson. "Such as the number of radio programs that pounded this accusation, the vast number of publications the Russians put out and distributed, and the innumerable conferences they staged throughout the world to spread the lie. All that ran into very big money, and they didn't stint it. I would say the $50,000,000 estimate is conservative and not an exaggeration."

Flashes — Eric Johnston, head of the Motion Picture Association, will make another trip to the Near East as special envoy of President Eisenhower in a new effort to ease tensions there.

Denmark is the latest NATO member to accept a Russian order to build ships. Denmark has agreed to build five refrigerator vessels for the Soviets... UN insiders are saying that Moscow will offer a new plan at the next meeting, in mid May, of the UN Subcommittee on Atomic Control.

Senator Leverett Saltonstall (R., Mass.) recently read a favorable letter from the American Heart Association on the matter of medical research in the atomic energy field, as follows:

"The Atomic Energy Commission since its organization has been a valuable aid to cancer research... Since the origin of this program, the usefulness of radioactive isotopes in fields other than cancer has been increasing and at the present time these materials are essential tools in cardiovascular and other fields of medicine."

of Rube Goldberg's new travel book makes it seem more amusing than even the first... One of the sports world's most inspiring figures—second to none in guts—is George Toporcer, stricken blind at almost the peak of his career in the big leagues... He was eight years with the Cards, including the year when they won the world series... He tried for second base against such greats as Frisch and Hornsby and on a day when Dizzy Vance set a trike-out record everybody on the team fanned except George... He is now a gallant figure, making a living writing and has a new book, "Baseball From Backyard to Big League."

"We have plans that we are working on," replied Morse. "But I must admit that our plans are not keeping up with the influx of farm products." "Then what you are telling us," said Ferguson, "is that the flow of commodities into the government's storage bins is at a faster rate than your disposals." "That's right," admitted Morse. "The accumulation of farm surpluses in government hands has been extremely rapid during the past year. We now hold $6,232,461,000 in loans and inventories as compared to $2,991,525,000 a year ago."

"What about butter," inquired Ferguson. "Haven't you accomplished anything on that as a result of the cutback in price supports?" "All the reports from the trade aren't in yet," explained Morse, "but I'm not too hopeful on our expectations. We are up against a tough situation. This is the period of top dairy production and up to July, we will be accumulating dairy products at a very high rate, regardless of the downward adjustment in the support level. The fact is, our acquisitions are running as much as 170 percent above original estimates."

"Whew, that high," exclaimed Ferguson wide-eyed. "That's astounding." "It sure is," agreed Morse, "but it's a fact, just the same." That ended the discussion.

George Sokolsky Says...

If Eisenhower Went Into The Newspaper Business He'd Find Reader Is The Boss

I suppose that it is only natural that the President of the United States, who is always being told what to do by many of the 160,000,000 experts on government, should tell publishers how they should manage their newspapers.

The lecture on the subject, which President Eisenhower delivered at the Waldorf Astoria before a convention of newspaper publishers, fell on hard ears and evoked little applause.

President Roosevelt used to lecture newspapermen on how to write stories, headlines, etc. He, of course, knew all about how it should be done because he had the knack of knowing something about everything and making it sound very plausible and impressive. However, he never succeeded in dominating the American press, which, on the whole, saw through his sweetness and light and generally exposed it. If anybody wants to take the trouble, he can research the newspapers and discover that much that is so astonishing today was published at the right time, often by indirection, because the precise data was marked "top secret" or some such inhibition.

The American press consists not only of publishers and editors but of reporters and columnists, who, no matter how they may differ, write on the concept that that is news which happens. The theory of either suppression or following a party line is alien to the American ideal. As much as some dislike the methods and logic of such of my colleagues, let us say, as Westbrook Pegler, Walter Winchell and Drew Pearson, or perhaps even of this writer, the actual fact is that the American press gives wide currency to what they write and even if, on occasion, they question each other's veracity, the public decides, by experience, that it is preferable to have numerous men tell the same story than to have it come from one source.

That really is the genius of the American newspaper: It does not limit itself to its own point of view. A publisher who because of "unity" suppressed all opposing news and all opposing views would soon enough discover reader resistance. The propaganda newspaper ultimately falls on its own face.

This is being exemplified by the reporting of the McCarthy-Stevens hearings, which are televised. Already one hears readers say that the headlines in a favorite newspaper differ from what the reader heard and saw on television. Each newspaper is being edited by the reader. And this may do more to correct the habit of clever headline writers to substitute a sharp, attention-calling headline for the truth. But even such a headline will not damage an article, if the reader chooses to read it.

Professor Zechariah Chafee, Jr. of Harvard once said to me, after a meeting in Boston, that he found all newspapers unsatisfactory because he never found in them what he wanted. I suggested that the alternative was to start a newspaper of his own and see if anybody else would want to read it. In New York where I live, there are nine daily newspapers of general news and circulation, numerous ones of specialized interests, and many in foreign languages. The general newspapers range through all political ideas, and every interest in life. Some are austere; others are gay and even trifling. Every taste, want and need can be satisfied. Many readers purchase more than one newspaper each day.

President Eisenhower desires that a greater quantity of foreign news be published by the newspapers. Actually some newspapers so specialize in foreign news that little space is left for the doings of neighbors. "The New York Times," for instance, specializes in foreign news but it does not have the largest circulation in New York despite the fact that in this city are concentrated the largest aggregations of persons among whom interest in foreign news is practically and emotionally persistent. The following table indicates readers' preferences:

Daily News	2,109,601
Mirror	913,691
Times	509,171

The "Daily News" and "Mirror" do not specialize in foreign news. They are essentially local newspapers. Combined they have a daily circulation of 3,023,292 against "The New York Times" 509,171. No one can be forced to buy or to read what he does not want. That is the first lesson in the newspaper, as in any other, business. If President Eisenhower went into the newspaper business, he would soon discover that the reader is the boss.

On Broadway

—by Walter Winchell

The News Slanters
Newspapers without truth are nothing more than weapons for versions of freedom. The odious consequences of ignorance are obvious... The case of James Wechsler, the former Young Communist League official, represents a wretched illustration. There is an abundance of evidence to certify that this former Reditor betrayed logic, and made a mockery of journalism.

The primitive indecency of his record does not encompass only journalistic vandalism—but the assassination of the truth. The death-dealing instrument is a form of ponderous subtlety known as news-slanting. Its manifest objectives are confusion and hatred. His pattern of slanted journalism is based on his dedication to the idea that prejudices are mightier than facts: His rag defends freedom of expression for pro-Communists Paul Robeson while condemning networks that offer time to a Senator to answer attacks. It liels anti-Communist newsmen, although Wechsler whines the free press is endangered when his own peculiar slant is investigated. His N. Y. Slant abused J. Edgar Hoover and the FBI for using wiretap evidence against Russian spies, but defended Dean Acheson's defense of Alger Hiss after Hiss was convicted. It assails official probes of Communism while tossing an occasional anti-Russian paragraph to the gullibles.

This ham's freak angle journalism is again evident. With confidence derived from long practice of circulating distortions plus the dullest prose—his rag frantically sought to convey the misinformation that this reporter is Sen. McCarthy's mouthpiece. At the same time the puny paper debunked itself by noting that we publicly shirk-kicked Sen. McCarthy when we differed with him. Last year their sleazebag was we feared McCarthy. This year, they imply, we fear our newspaper bosses and feel "a deepening sense of insecurity in the Hearst empire," etc.

This is really hilarious. Since the slanters know (but just don't want to remember, for the record) that all newspapers on our syndicate (from border to border and coast to coast) do not pay us in one month what tv and radio pay us in one night.

The Compost's shameful descent to the depths was indicated by its injection of religious and racial slurs into purely political issues. Its campaign was inaugurated furiously with not-so-sly innuendo. What was stealthily became obvious on October 26, 1953 when Cardinal Spellman defended the activities of Congressional investigating committees. Editor Wechsler's editorial response was typically violent and abusive. It stated in part: "Even more disturbing is the failure of some eminent citizens to raise their voices to protest against political gangsterism and the willingness of others to give it their active approval." The slant was typically disgraceful. The rag contended that Cardinal Spellman was a proponent of political gangsterism.

The ugly consequences of the rag's propaganda apparently impelled one of its hyliars to offer a mild protest. As we recently reported—he confessed that using the word "McCarthyism" (as an insult) "had offensive implication for Irish-Americans." The space-filler, however, neglected to mention that his own paper has carried on this form of bigotry for years. But the Daily Slant has continued to use the word "McCarthyism" with all of its offensive implications to Catholics.

When Wechsler helped mastermind the Young Communist League's conspiracy he used the name "Arthur Lawson" as an alias. He claims he parted with the Red forces, but he retained his fanaticism and capacity for deception that he learned as a Communist. And he adopted another alias: "Liberal." Although Wechsler's personal and political philosophy has no roots in the liberal tradition, that wonderful word became his disguise—much as the Communists today cloak themselves with another fine word, "peace." Tragically, Wechsler and his comrades have almost succeeded in making liberal a dirty word. Inevitably, the liberal ideal will survive its traducers.

As J. Edgar Hoover warned: "The pseudo-liberal can be more dangerous than the known Communists because of the esteem which his cloak of responsibility invites."

Looking At Life

—by Erich Brandeis

Why is it, I wonder, that whenever things look their gloomiest and it seems that the whole world might be coming to an end, I just cannot get myself to join the chorus of crepe hangers.

Right now, for instance, everybody is weighed down with preparations for the coming hydrogen deluge, and a lot of women are already discussing what to wear for the big event.

I won't even get my suitcase out of the attic, let alone pack it. I do hope all of you recently listened to President Eisenhower. THERE is a man after my heart.

There is a man who believes in the remote possibility of a hydrogen attack but looks at it in too realistic a way to do a lot of ifing and butting about it.

What does the enemy have to win? What does he have to lose? Is he crazy enough to risk total destruction of himself by trying to destroy us?

Eisenhower, in that speech, his demeanor, his logic, was every inch the soldier, the man, the American, while little scuttlebutts open their mouths wide and try to scare us crazy by just blowing off loud clouds of steam.

I came across a calling card which reminded me of an incident that happened years ago.

A college chum had left it with me when I studied in Germany. He was quite an aristocrat with monocle, spats and cane. His full name was Freiherr (which is German for Baron) Kurt Ludwig Ferdinand von Hoffmannhausen. He was not much good, just an ordinary German student, with all the conceit, condescension and bravado of the Prussian aristocrat.

Just out of curiosity, I inquired about Ludwig Ferdinand when I visited Germany a couple of years ago. They had no idea what had become of the Hoffmannhausen family, the authorities told me. Finally, I located his tombstone in a little graveyard near Heidelberg. All it said on it was L. F. Hoffmann and the date of his death. There was apparently no more room for the rest of his name. He would have been mortified could he have read that stone.

In contrast to these long aristocratic names (I heard of a Signor Carlos Amadeo Mendez Mendez Mendez y Mendez long ago, according to a story in a New York paper, here are some Hawaiian names, right out of the phone book: Al, Su, Bo, Do, Ea, Ha, Ho, Hi, I, Ja, Ku, La, Li, Lu, Ma, Ng, O, Pa, Sa, So, Ti, Ua, Wo, Wu, Yi, Yu.

I wonder whether I wouldn't just as soon be named I Ng as Kurt Ludwig Ferdinand von Hoffmannhausen. That is, I Ng and be ALIVE.

And here is a little item from Japan that may give you an idea. Two army officers of the wartime Imperial army have changed their means of livelihood.

Both colonels, they now write love letters in English or French, for a fee.

After a weekend at a super-duper resort hotel in Palm Beach, a tourist quite expected the roof to fall in on him when bill-paying time arrived, but he wasn't prepared for a three-page, itemized account. He managed to identify every item but the very last one—which was the smallest (only a dollar). He was told it was for stationery. "But," he pointed out, "I didn't use any stationery." "The stationery referred to," explained the cashier loftily, "is the paper on which this bill is made out!"

County YMCA Enrolling Boys For Day Camp

The YMCA announced yesterday that registrations are now being accepted for the 1954 Summer Day Camp season.

The "Y" Day Camp again this year will conduct two two-week periods for all boys in Monroe County between the ages of eight and 13. The first period begins June 28 and ends July 9; the second period begins July 12 and ends July 23.

John R. Wilson and Carlton C. Chopp, executives of the Monroe County YMCA, will plan, direct and supervise this summer activity. Rex Harding, supervising principal of the Clearview School, will assume responsibilities as head counselor.

The boys will meet at the partially constructed "Y" at 9 a.m. each day except Saturday and Sunday and proceed to the camp site by bus. Boys living in East Stroudsburg will meet at the railroad station and be transported from there.

If enough boys are enrolled in the Clearview School area, bus transportation will be provided for them.

Increased and varied programs will be featured this year, leaders said. There will be swimming, boating, baseball, hikes, crafts among others.

Only 50 boys per period will be accepted and persons desiring registration forms can telephone the YMCA at 832. Additional information will also be given if desired.

Eastburger Editorials Win Second Place In State Contest

Editorials written for "The Eastburger", East Stroudsburg High School student newspaper, placed second in a State contest this week.

In competition with more than 100 other high school newspapers at the annual High School Press Convention held at Penn State University, "The Eastburger" was one of 36 to receive citations for highest degree of accomplishment.

Robert Hinton, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Hinton, Mount Bethel RD 1, is editor of "The Eastburger" this year. Most of the "lead" editorials during the school year were written by Hinton.

Five other students have contributed steadily to the editorial columns, according to John Eckert, faculty adviser for the newspaper. Contributing editorial writers were Sonia Smith, Reva Heller, Howard Powell, Leonard Capuano and William Sommers.

During the current year, editorial writers for the school paper have concentrated their efforts along several widely-varied channels. Editorials ranging in theme from comments on "good student government" through the importance of driver education appeared in the paper this year.

A series of "guest editorials" also appeared. These were written by Eckert, student teacher; Albert DeSousa and J. H. Kunkle, president

A new seven-inch vault with safety deposit facilities is one of the bank's main features. A night depository also is incorporated. Heating is provided by an oil-fired plant, using base-board radiation of the hot water type.

Mundt Compares Role To That Of Flagpole Sitter

Washington — Sen. Karl Mundt (R., S.D.) is not happy directing the uproarious investigation of the Army-McCarthy feud, and makes no bones about it.

He described his feelings to Sen. Homer Ferguson (R., Mich.) as follows:

"I now know what a flagpole sifter thinks and how he feels," said Mundt.

"I can imagine in a way how he feels sitting way up there," said Ferguson, "but just what does he think?"

"He wonders which side he will fall off on," replied Mundt lugubriously.

Further Aid Contributed Toward Home

Smithfield Township residents continued to pool their efforts yesterday to help a Franklin Hill couple rebuild their burned-out home.

According to Nelson Overfield, PTA president and head of a committee set up to help the Paul George family, cash donations have been slow in coming—but help has developed in most other areas.

This week, for example Overfield said, Van D. Yetter, local contractor visited the site of the George home which was destroyed by fire last Saturday night.

Yetter called in one of his bulldozers, dozed out the parched cellar to make preliminary excavation for a new house. No charge was made for the work, Overfield said. Instead Yetter contributed $10 to help the family begin its new building plan.

In addition to this the PTA has collected $90 in donations for the family, Overfield said. Two truck owners loaned their vehicles for purposes of hauling sand and cement to the building site.

Volunteer workers who have said they will assist in putting up a new building now number 11, Overfield said. Among them are Richard Gilliland, Arthur Frantz, Melvin Curtis, George Scoble, Norman Warner, Nelson Bruce, Bill George, Emmett George, Ernest George, Dick Staples and Joseph Blondo.

Numerous other township and East Stroudsburg residents have chipped in with bedding, beds, clothing, children's toys and other articles.

REPRESENTING all the Brownies and Girl Scouts of the county who worked to pay off two more mortgage bonds on the Girl Scout House are Sharon Phillips of Brownie Troop 25, and Marie Cohen, Senior Scout, at the annual Girl Scout Council Meeting. The ceremony was arranged with Mrs. Harold James and Donna Rowe, Intermediate Scout of Troop 14, also taking part.

Girl Scouts Gain In Many Fields, County Council Hears

With the burning of two more bonds on the Girl Scout House and the passing of the 500 mark in membership, the Girl Scout Council of Monroe County could add a jubilant note to its annual meeting held at Wyckoff Recreation Rooms on Thursday night.

Two representatives of the National Girl Scout Council praised the work of the local Girl Scouts in camping, training and registration. As of the meeting night, the number of registered Girl Scouts in the county was 516, which does not include two new troops in the West End who have not yet registered their members.

Mrs. Lefoy J. Kochler presided at the meeting when Samuel S. Monatt, of the Stroudsburg CPA firm, was elected as treasurer, replacing Horace Westbrook who has served for the past six years. Mrs. Walter Dreher was re-elected as registrar. Westbrook and Mrs. Camille Harvey, former executive director, were elected to vacancies on the board of directors.

The tribute to the local Scout program was brought by Mrs. Sara Browning, member of the National Girl Scout Staff, before she began her talk on "Council into World Scouting." Mrs. Browning accompanied ten senior Scouts to The International Camps in Finland and Norway, and her talk dealt with their experiences on that trip.

The most lasting impression of the trip she said, was city after city with the Girl Scouts all singing the same songs, but in their native tongue. The group of ten girls, representing the twelve sections of the United States, assembled for a three-day preparation at Camp Edith Macy before they left. During that period they cut down on their luggage and formed a patrol system which carried them throughout their entire trip which included London, Stockholm and the International Camp where 200 girls, plus the staff, lived, played and worked together. Each unit of 37 girls flew three days from their camp site, she said, and did all the cooking and planning of their encampment.

One of the highlights of their camp experience was the Day of Four Brothers when the Scouts—an American girl teamed with a European girl—took part in a variation of a treasure hunt. In Norway, they lived in igloo tents. She closed by reporting the "beatitudes of a leader."

Mrs. John Williamson, of Weatherly, chairman of section 3, region 3, also brought greetings.

Mrs. Roger Acker, training chairman, announced an open house for registered adult Scouts at Camp Edith Macy on June 21. Mrs. Madge Miller gave the report of the camping committee of which she is chairman.

Mrs. Harry Heller, president of the Leaders Association, announced plans for a hike cook-out for leaders to be held May 6, starting from the Girl Scout House at 8 p. m. Mrs. Heller also introduced Mrs. George Wakefield, new president of the Leaders Association.

Mrs. Wendell Wicks, Senior Scout advisor, introduced Miss Marie Cohen, who outlined the highlights of the Senior Girl Scout year. The seniors meet each Saturday at the home of Mrs. Wendell Wicks she reported, and

Just Between Us

—By Bobby Westbrook

Great minds talk about ideas, average minds about people and small minds about things—so let's be average, shall we. Certainly, there have been enough interesting people around these past few days.

Frances Campbell, back from York for the Skiffers' banquet, and looking very gay with her orchid, Ann and Vere Banks home for a week's vacation and what prettier time could they come?

And the word that knocked Dr. Hendrick out of the spelling bee he found himself in so unexpectedly was "restaurant" which he can spell in his sleep—but not in front of an audience, and I don't blame him. Oral spelling is as difficult as writing music.

And what almost knocked out Kathryn Edwards was putting on that Girl Scout supper three flights up. At that I think the crowning touch was her decision to wash the windows before the party. It was a night party too, with no sun to show whether they were clean or not. That's almost as inexplicable as ironing socks.

There was a good explanation however for why, suddenly, the streets should blossom with teenagers yesterday afternoon. The straight session at SHS released the whole lot of them. From all indications, the Bermuda shorts and the treader pants are due to replace the short shorts and the dungarees this summer. And very becoming they are, too.

Lapinsky-LeBar Troth Announced

Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Lapinsky, of RD3, Stroudsburg, announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Caroline Alice Lapinsky, to John Amzi LeBar Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. John A. LeBar, of 339 Thomas Street.

Miss Lapinsky is a graduate of Stroudsburg High School and is employed at the office of Bensinger, Bensinger and Bensinger. Mr. LeBar is a graduate of Stroudsburg High School and Wyoming Seminary, and was a student at Philadelphia College of Pharmacy. During the war he served two years with the 44th Infantry Division of the United States Army. Since then he has been associated with his father at LeBar's Drug Store.

No date has been set for the wedding.

THE
SHOPPER

This is the day you were supposed to steal silently from bed at dawn and wash your face in the dew if you have freckles you want erased. It is the day when you may find a basket full of posies swinging from your door knob if you have a bashful admirer. On the other hand, it's the day when the mail man may remember you with a sheet of "Kindly Remits." Life's like that!

May Coffman reminds me that the strapless bra-waist cincher-garter belt of nylon lace by Lovable, is called a "Bravette." And I always thought THAT was something you purchased in the jewelry department... Our receiving room was bulging yesterday with a new shipment of Royal Dutch pottery. There are small vases in many styles, adorable round, covered dishes that might be used on either vanity or coffee table, ash trays and novelties. The colors are beautiful, many of them a tribute to the House of Orange. Which reminds me that one of the New York columnists has been talking about the possibility of a union at some future date of England's young Duke of Kent and Queen Juliana's oldest daughter. Ah, these royal romances! ... "What do you mean that Houlihan's Body Tone is the finest Tone since Franchot?" a co-worker queries. "It's the finest tone since the Lost Chord." Who am I to argue? I'm using my sample and feeling so luxurious no endorsement seems too flattering... "In Flanders Field the poppies grow." They grow too on the velvet-edged hem of a white straw hat in Maude Walton's department, and oh, how lovely they are! Funny, isn't it, but as pretty as the hats are this year, not one looks well on me. Maude says I can't blame the styles. The gleam in her eye tells me I'd better not press for an explanation... And now a word of hallelujah for Ball Clay. That's the name appearing on those dashing, short-sleeved sport shirts by Arrow in our men's department. The white backgrounds have blobs of navy, brown, or other colors which remind me somehow of the "pictures" one makes, by folding ink blotted paper. I like them. They're easy to launder, and undoubtedly comfortable to wear. Cool, baby - COOL! ... These are housecleaning days at Wyckoff's. Mr. Wyckoff is coming home, and we're to have other guests, so when we're not busy with our usual chores, we're wiping finger prints from woodwork and counters, clearing off desks, dusting out of the way corners, and generally making-like-Mom the day before the cleaning woman is due. Funny thing, isn't it, how women will put everything in order before the cleaning woman comes - yet many of 'em do. In my dusting up, I'm finding those paper Rainbow towels from our notions department to be wonderful aids. I bought this package ages ago, and have used only two thus far... Dick Shook's department has another very fine housecleaning help in the O Card Map with its replaceable sponge head. You've probably seen this on television, where it looks almost too good to be true. Try it yourself, and you'll find it's even better than the ad... Roses and carnations form a heavenly bouquet on Burnell's Handkerchief of the Month. These hankies are the best 50c buy on the accessories counter, seems to me, and so appropriate for May. But please don't get me started on the subject of $1 hankies - some of them are too beautiful for words. Anyway...

A hankie is a little thing
Too often overlooked,
For if you need and haven't one
Your goose, my dear, is cooked.

Just when you realize you've left
That bit of linen home,
Some pesky whine of fate
Is sure to send an evil gnome
To tweak your nose and make you sneeze,
Or give you cause to cry.
And there you are, a-sniffing
And dabbing at your eye.

A hankie is a little thing,
With oh, so low a cost,
But gosh, without one any cause
Can be completely lost.

May's Homer In 14th Wins For Giants

Chicago (AP)—Willie Mays' homer in the 14th was the winning margin of a 4-2 New York Giants triumph yesterday over the Chicago Cubs, fashioned behind Sal Maglie's brilliant pitching over the full distance for his fourth victory against no defeats.

Cub starter Bob Rush had yielded only three hits over 12 innings, but one was "Hank" Thompson's home run in the seventh which tied the score at 2-2.

Ransom Jackson's fifth homer of the season was the final Cub tally.

Brief Lead

The Giants briefly held a 3-0 lead at the top of the second when Thompson's inning-opening walk was followed by an infield out and Monte Irvin's long single to left center. It was the 500th major league hit for Irvin, scoring Thompson from second.

In the bottom of the second, the Cubs made it 1-1 after "Hank" Sauer opened with a single to center, Jackson beat out a roller down the third base line and Ernie Banks' sharp single to center filled the bases. Gene Baker's long sacrifice fly to left scored Sauer, New York.

Indians Score Five Times In Tenth To Down Yankees

New York (AP)—Cleveland fell on reliever "Whitey" Ford for five runs in the 10th inning yesterday on three singles, a triple and two walks to beat the New York Yankees 9-4 behind Bob Lemon's six-hit pitching.

Larry Doby's two-run single, his fourth hit of the day, broke the tie with the bases loaded and one out in the 10th. Dave Philley's single drove in another and George Strickland's triple over Irv Noren's head added the final pair. A single by Bobby Avila and two walks started Ford on his way to his second defeat.

Except for a sad two-run error by Dale Mitchell on Noren's easy fly ball in the sixth, Lemon probably would have won in regulation time. The muf of Noren's fly followed a bad peg by third baseman Al Smith, a hit batsman and a scratchy infield single after Jerry Coleman had singled to left.

Defense Folds

Lemon had allowed only two hits, both ground rule doubles, in the first five innings and held a 4-1 edge when the Cleveland defense collapsed.

The Tribe hopped on Tom Morgan, Yank starter who just returned from the Army, for three runs in the second on Al Rosen's single, Doby's third homer, Philley's triple and Strickland's sacrifice fly. After yielding another in the third on Smith's single, a wild pitch and Rosen's second straight single, Morgan gave way to Bob Kuzava.

Chisox Blank Red Sox, 5-0

Boston (AP)—Chicago right-hander Bob Kuzava gained his third victory of the year and eighth in a row over two seasons yesterday in shutting out Boston 5-0 on eight hits.

The big Rochester, N. Y., native, never in serious danger of losing, got out of a jam and preserved his shutout in the eighth inning when the Red Sox came up with three singles but failed to score.

The White Sox, who now have won nine of their last 11 games, got off to a quick start with two runs in the first inning.

Wild Throw

After "Chico" Carrasquel and Nellie Fox had singled as the first two batters Boston third baseman George Kell, still bothered by a bad back, threw the ball into the Red Sox dugout on an attempted double play.

Four Arrested In New Jersey Gambling Raid

Phillipsburg, N. J.—Four men were arrested yesterday in gambling raids on a residence and a barber shop in downtown Phillipsburg, the hometown of Gov. Robert B. Meyner.

Warren County Prosecutor Wilbur M. Rush said the raids were staged after intensive investigation with the cooperation of local and state police and the state attorney general's office.

He said he had been informed sometime ago by Phillipsburg Police Chief James F. Stapp of "suspicious gambling within the town of Phillipsburg."

He said yesterday's arrests came after "months of investigation."

The four men were arraigned on bookmaking charges before Magistrate J. Francis Monroney.

They were: Vincent Piperata and William Petrino, held in $5,000 bail each, and John Polcari and Anthony Tumimello, held in $2,500 bail each, for action of the Warren County grand jury.

The places raided were the residence at 814 S. Main St., and a barber shop at 88 S. Main St.

Pike Teachers May Share In Institute Here

First day of "teachers' institute" during the 1954-55 school year will be held on Sept. 20 at State Teachers College.

According to John Litts, county superintendent, and Walter Sebring, assistant superintendent, plans for the first day of institute have been nearly completed.

There is a possibility that Pike County teachers may also share in the institute sessions on Sept. 20, Litts and Sebring said. Whether this occurs will depend on conferences between local authorities and Pike Superintendent Lloyd Jones.

Jones has conferred with Litts, Sebring and other planners during the preliminary stages of setting up the conference, Litts said.

Present plans also call for the first day of institute to coincide with the regular elementary conference of the local college, although secondary school work will be covered, too, during the institute.

If Pike County decides to take part in the institute sessions, two delegates will attend from each of four districts—Stroudsburg, East Stroudsburg, Monroe County and Pike County.

Chairman of committees for the institute will be notified of their selection as soon as possible, Sebring said. All committee chairmen will be invited to attend a special meeting in the training school on the college campus on Wednesday, May 5 at 7:30 p. m.

Working on preliminary plans for the sessions were Litts, Sebring, Jones, Earl Groner, Carl Seor, Theodore Miller and Mrs. Pauline Peterson.

Scranton Protests Proposed Locations Of Interchanges

Harrisburg (AP)—Gov. John S. Fine said yesterday he has turned over to the Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission a letter of protest from the Scranton Chamber of Commerce on location of interchanges on the turnpike's North-eastern Extension.

"The matter is entirely up to the turnpike commission," Fine told a reporter.

The chamber also sent a protest letter directly to Commission Chairman T. J. Evans. Evans was not available for comment.

Joined by Scranton civic and transportation groups, the chamber's protest charged that the commission did not adhere to original engineering plans for location of interchanges in the Scranton and Wilkes-Barre areas.

The 110-mile extension, to run from Plymouth Meeting, near Philadelphia, to north of Scranton, will have eight interchanges.

The Scranton groups called on the commission to return to original plans for the interchanges as outlined in a prospectus for financiers on April 7.

The protest letters were signed by Henry Nogl, Scranton Chamber of Commerce president; Allan Hunsinger, secretary—manager of the Lackawanna Motor Club, and Richard J. Payton, secretary of the Lackawanna chapter of the Pennsylvania Motor Truck Assn.
